SUBJECT: Survey of the Arab Military Situation

1. Introduction

Source states that information emanating from various reliable sub-sources indicates instability and confusion in the present Arab leadership because of political and military rivalry among the various leaders. JAMIL is said to be attempting to get more power at the expense of Dr. HASSAN. In JAMIL's hands, representatives of the Arab League is reportedly intervening against Dr. HASSAN, the more and is said to be using the utmost pressure to overcome the opposition which extended behind HASSAN. Many sources, one-time close allies of JAMIL, have reportedly withdrawn from active participation in the present struggle since his return from his mission. An unconfirmed report attributes this to a clash of personalities between him and JAMIL. JAMIL's return, as JAMIL's commander of the Jordanian and southern Palestine army, is said to be giving a bid for the overall command of Arab armed forces. Source interprets this as a move directed against JAMIL, but states that there is evidence of strong support for JAMIL from Egypt and from the UFFA. Source adds that any opposition in the Jordanian area have been crushed out by JAMIL on his own initiative and without reference to any other authority. One of his closest lieutenants is said to be JAMIL. JAMIL, former commander of the UFFA, covered JAMIL's path through this. JAMIL remains in command of the Arab armed forces in the JAMIL area.

2. JAMIL'S ARMY

According to source, about 4,000 Arab regulars, mainly from Syria and Iraq, are said to be now stationed in Palestine. These troops are said to be organized along proper military lines with full auxiliary units such as signals and medical corps groups. Source reports that they are being supplied from Syria. Their equipment is said to consist largely of light arms of American, English, and French origin, and of a small number of heavy machine guns and mortars. Source states that it is planned to bring in field artillery which is reportedly already available for transportation immediately after the British evacuation. These foreign troops are said to be divided into two command-divisions army, to be organized into two and are reportedly subject directly to JAMIL in Palestine. They are reportedly based in

It will be recalled that the Syrian army were American weapons (often captured to sell local civilians) from which our intelligence has been rescued.

The following list of 4 February dates that I had my first full speaking at the meeting of the Arab League Council, to be held on February 1.

From such sources as are available to this office, it would appear that the Military Committee of the Arab League is in fact the highest military command of the Palestine Police, usually better informed than the ordinary members of this institution, both military as the overall chief and strategical members.

units, also referred to as Brigades or Divisions, are known to be in Soviet hands, but are not at present under Fandi's command.

The situation continues to be extremely fluid with almost daily changes in the Arab military picture.
